Prevention and response key in zone response to widespread flooding.

Emergency management director. We agreed that when facing a disaster of any type, one of the keys to a successful response comes from neighbors helping neighbors. Our team offers that training through their Community Emergency Response Teams (CERT) training. CERT classes provide hands-on training showing you how to safely and effectively deal with emergencies before they happen in your community. Training includes first aid, search and rescue, and fire suppression. Enrollment in the next CERT class starts April 23. For more information, please see the CERT class information page at http://www.rentonwa.gov/2271/CERT.

The source determines the type and amount of treatment, where the water is continually monitored and tested for purity. Using clean water is delivered at the perfect pressure to your house or business. We have placed a priority on curating the local and far for you and your family.

At City Council, I often acknowledge the efforts of Parks and Recreation staff, and most especially the Cedar River Trail patrol team, who were on duty through the weekend monitoring from Thursday to Sunday, kept the river away and limited damage by some ground pressure to your house or business.

Train for disaster response through CERT

CERT (Citizen Corps Ready Team) is a U.S. Department of Homeland Security initiative designed to build a volunteer workforce in response to natural disasters, terrorism, and other threats. The goal of CERT is to improve community safety and resilience by preparing volunteers to assist during disasters and to provide critical support to professional responders.

The CERT program trains volunteers to respond to disasters and provide assistance immediately after any disaster occurs. CERT volunteers are trained in a 40-hour basic course that covers disaster preparedness, disaster response, and disaster recovery.

Celebrating Black History Month

The celebration of Black History Month has been going on all month. Last week I attended a special Black History Month event and had the honor of welcoming our first African American Mayor, Armondo Pavone. We had a wonderful event that included a presentation by our own Mayor, Armondo Pavone, who shared his personal story and how he became the first African American Mayor of Renton. We also had a panel discussion on the history of African Americans in Renton and their contributions to the community.

Census outreach to use trusted messengers

PREVAILING ACCOUNTS AND TERRORISM INFORMATION is a key part of our efforts to ensure we are prepared for any potential threats. We have developed protocols and strategies to address these concerns.

The census is an important part of our democracy, and we encourage everyone to participate. The deadline for the census is approaching, and we need your help to ensure that our community is accurately counted.

Center for\n
Training for disaster response through CERT

CULTURAL UNDERSTANDING is a key part of our efforts to ensure we are prepared for any potential threats. We have developed protocols and strategies to address these concerns.

The celebration of Black History Month has been going on all month. Last week I attended a special Black History Month event and had the honor of welcoming our first African American Mayor, Armondo Pavone. We had a wonderful event that included a presentation by our own Mayor, Armondo Pavone, who shared his personal story and how he became the first African American Mayor of Renton. We also had a panel discussion on the history of African Americans in Renton and their contributions to the community.

The census is an important part of our democracy, and we encourage everyone to participate. The deadline for the census is approaching, and we need your help to ensure that our community is accurately counted.

Center for\n
Training for disaster response through CERT

CULTURAL UNDERSTANDING is a key part of our efforts to ensure we are prepared for any potential threats. We have developed protocols and strategies to address these concerns.

The celebration of Black History Month has been going on all month. Last week I attended a special Black History Month event and had the honor of welcoming our first African American Mayor, Armondo Pavone. We had a wonderful event that included a presentation by our own Mayor, Armondo Pavone, who shared his personal story and how he became the first African American Mayor of Renton. We also had a panel discussion on the history of African Americans in Renton and their contributions to the community.

The census is an important part of our democracy, and we encourage everyone to participate. The deadline for the census is approaching, and we need your help to ensure that our community is accurately counted.

Center for\n
Training for disaster response through CERT

CULTURAL UNDERSTANDING is a key part of our efforts to ensure we are prepared for any potential threats. We have developed protocols and strategies to address these concerns.

The celebration of Black History Month has been going on all month. Last week I attended a special Black History Month event and had the honor of welcoming our first African American Mayor, Armondo Pavone. We had a wonderful event that included a presentation by our own Mayor, Armondo Pavone, who shared his personal story and how he became the first African American Mayor of Renton. We also had a panel discussion on the history of African Americans in Renton and their contributions to the community.

The census is an important part of our democracy, and we encourage everyone to participate. The deadline for the census is approaching, and we need your help to ensure that our community is accurately counted.

Center for\n
Training for disaster response through CERT

CULTURAL UNDERSTANDING is a key part of our efforts to ensure we are prepared for any potential threats. We have developed protocols and strategies to address these concerns.

The celebration of Black History Month has been going on all month. Last week I attended a special Black History Month event and had the honor of welcoming our first African American Mayor, Armondo Pavone. We had a wonderful event that included a presentation by our own Mayor, Armondo Pavone, who shared his personal story and how he became the first African American Mayor of Renton. We also had a panel discussion on the history of African Americans in Renton and their contributions to the community.

The census is an important part of our democracy, and we encourage everyone to participate. The deadline for the census is approaching, and we need your help to ensure that our community is accurately counted.

Center for\n
Training for disaster response through CERT

CULTURAL UNDERSTANDING is a key part of our efforts to ensure we are prepared for any potential threats. We have developed protocols and strategies to address these concerns.

The celebration of Black History Month has been going on all month. Last week I attended a special Black History Month event and had the honor of welcoming our first African American Mayor, Armondo Pavone. We had a wonderful event that included a presentation by our own Mayor, Armondo Pavone, who shared his personal story and how he became the first African American Mayor of Renton. We also had a panel discussion on the history of African Americans in Renton and their contributions to the community.

The census is an important part of our democracy, and we encourage everyone to participate. The deadline for the census is approaching, and we need your help to ensure that our community is accurately counted.

Center for\n
Training for disaster response through CERT

CULTURAL UNDERSTANDING is a key part of our efforts to ensure we are prepared for any potential threats. We have developed protocols and strategies to address these concerns.

The celebration of Black History Month has been going on all month. Last week I attended a special Black History Month event and had the honor of welcoming our first African American Mayor, Armondo Pavone. We had a wonderful event that included a presentation by our own Mayor, Armondo Pavone, who shared his personal story and how he became the first African American Mayor of Renton. We also had a panel discussion on the history of African Americans in Renton and their contributions to the community.

The census is an important part of our democracy, and we encourage everyone to participate. The deadline for the census is approaching, and we need your help to ensure that our community is accurately counted.