Click to learn more...

With information regarding COVID-19 continually being updated, I've decided to publish this newsletter to share what we know with the residents of Renton. In each edition our team will bring you the latest updates from around the city as well as information from county, state and federal officials and agencies.

Celebrate Arbor Day

Today is Arbor Day and like Earth Day we're not able to have a city-wide celebration. But that doesn't mean we can't celebrate all the benefits trees bring to our everyday lives.

Did you know:

- In Renton we have 130,000 trees on publicly managed land, including natural areas, streets, right-of-way and parks
- Those city trees return ecological benefits worth in excess of $9.6 million annually, including saving water, saving energy, reducing greenhouse gases and extending pavement life
- Trees in Renton absorbed almost 1.4 million pounds of carbon dioxide and turned it into wood
- Trees help reduce heating and cooling costs and saved almost 4.3 million kilowatt hours of electricity, a savings of $363,379 in 2019.

In appreciation for the efforts of our Urban and Community Forestry staff and all of you, Renton was named a Sterling Tree City USA by the Arbor Day Foundation, in cooperation with the National Association of State Foresters and the USDA Forest Service.

Work starts on conversion of Wells and Williams avenues

Artist's rendition of the completed project looking north on Wells Avenue South toward South Third Street.

If you've been downtown you might have noticed we've started work to convert Wells Avenue South and Williams Avenue South from one-way to two-way traffic. When complete, these two streets will be an integral part of our vision of downtown Renton as a welcoming destination for both residents and visitors.

We're allowed to undertake this project because it meets requirements in the governor's "Stay Home, Stay Healthy" order. We are also on a strict timeline for the use of the project's federal grant funding, which is an integral component. All workers are adhering to standards set for social distancing and worker protection. They also feel it's important that they patronize downtown restaurants for lunch.

This first phase is focusing on underground utility work on South Second and South Third streets in preparation for rebuilding four intersections late this summer. There will be some temporary lane closures and some parking restrictions near the work zones. We appreciate your patience.

You can find project information, including a projected timeline for the next three weeks, on our website.

Governor announces re-start of construction work that meets safety and worker-protection guidelines

Gov. Inslee earlier today announced a plan to restart construction projects that are considered low-risk and will meet strict safety and worker protection guidelines. The plan covers all variety of construction projects including state projects.

To resume work, existing projects must maintain the following safety measures:

- A safety plan that includes physical distancing, adequate personal protective equipment, and on-site COVID-19 supervisor must be in place
- A comprehensive COVID-19 exposure, control and mitigation plan
- Post written notice of the work to be performed at the job site (changed it to 2 words) for employees, subcontractors and government officials
- Keep a safe and healthy worksite

Implementation of the plan is a cooperative effort between the governor's office, Department of Commerce and an array of industry, labor, and local government stakeholders. This group has developed plans which provide enforceable safety guidelines, including maintaining a 6-foot distance between workers.

The governor also said that it is not clear yet when other businesses will similarly be able to reopen. He said his office hopes to use the Phase 1 construction rules as a template for continuing to open other sectors of the economy if health metrics continue to trend positively. He was expected to sign the construction order today.

Gov. Inslee concluded by saying he would have information in the next several days about the potential reopening of certain elective surgeries and outdoor recreation activities. Earlier this week, he said that a relaxation of restrictions in these two areas could be expected prior to the current May 4 expiration date for the Stay Home, Stay Healthy order.

These are just a few of the many options available. All these organizations can use your help through donations of food or money or time as a volunteer. You can find more information below under the Food Banks/Resource.

Census 2020

Our most current census response rate sits at 59.8 percent; good, but we're shooting for 100 percent. Optimistic? Yes, but our future depends on it. If the events of the past two-plus months have shown us anything, it's that we must be prepared as community. Census results help determine federal funding for critical needs like hospitals and schools. It also helps fund transportation projects and community development projects. In 2018 Renton received almost $3.3 million in funds from the federal government, which equates to a little over $2,300 for every man, woman and child. That's what's at stake.

If you have responded, I thank you. If you have not, please take 10 minutes to respond. This is your opportunity to have direct effect on the future of your community.

Inspections - Building and Development Engineering

Community and Economic Development Department (CED) has been receiving questions from homeowners and contractors regarding how the city is interpreting the construction-related provisions of Gov. Inslee's Stay Home, Stay Healthy Proclamation and related guidance issued by the Governor's Office.

- CED has interpreted the Stay Home, Stay Healthy order to deem new residential and commercial construction as non-essential activities, except that construction of public projects (such as public affordable housing projects) and public components of private projects (such as utilities and streets intended for turnover to the city) are essential activities. Furthermore, CED has interpreted the Stay Home, Stay Healthy order to allow construction related to the order's list of essential activities including supply chain for goods, services, and healthcare.

- Under these interpretations, CED will continue its physical inspections associated with the following city-issued permits:
 - Building permits for occupied residential structures necessary to avoid damage or unsafe conditions;
 - Building permits for buildings that are a necessary component of the community's supply chain for goods, services, and healthcare;
 - Engineering permits for facilities intended to be made part of the city's public infrastructure. Such facilities include water, sanitary sewer, and stormwater utilities intended to be transferred to the city at completion and street improvements intended to be transferred to the city at completion.
- Although CED will not be performing physical onsite inspections for new unoccupied homes or other projects not falling into the above list, some inspections can be accomplished virtually. If you are interested in more information about virtual inspections, please contact the Building Division: 425-430-7200.
- These interpretations are valid as of March 30, 2020 under the governor's guidance in effect as of that date. Please note that these interpretations are subject to change as more information becomes available regarding the efforts to contain COVID-19 or if further guidance is issued by the governor's office.
